

DDI CODE OF ETHICS

DDI strives to act in accordance with established standards for development organizations, including those of the Civicus International Non-Governmental Organizations Accountability Charter.

Specifically, DDI will:

- act in accordance with the Universal Declaration of Human Rights;
- act in solidarity with the goals and priorities of our partners and target communities;
- exercise and promote fairness, impartiality and equity in all of our activities and in dealings with interested parties, partners and the general public;
- act truthfully and refrain from practices that undermine the moral and ethical integrity of DDI;
- be transparent and accountable in our dealings with governments, communities, donors and other interested parties;
- conform to the constitution, laws, rules and regulations of the countries that we are working in;
- strive to maintain autonomy and resist activities that may compromise our mission and principles.

Reference: Civicus International Non-Governmental Organizations Accountability Charter – <http://www.ingoaccountabilitycharter.org/download/ingo-accountability-charter-eng.pdf>

